SATURDAY EVENING, APRIL 26.

MUSCULAR CHRISTIANITY. - Dr. L. Carr, a prominent physician of Charleston, W. Va., was knocked down on Thursday by the Rev. Rufus Workman, who hit him with a brick. Both had been among the crowd in attendance on the County Court, which had sat for the granting of liquor licenses. Among those who addressed the court was Rev. Mr. Workman, who opposed the granting of licenses. Dr. Carr took offense at something he said in his remarks, and the two went to the courthouse yard, where a fight ensued. The doctor attempted to strike the preacher with his cane, but the reverend gentleman was too quick for him and felled him with a brick. The doctor went to his room, secured a revolver, and started on a hunt for Mr. Workman, swearing he would kill him. An officer stopped him, when he remarked that they might as well let him kill that man now, as he fully intended to do so at some time.

A MUSICAL TREE .- Accounts of reliable travel ers describe a musical tree, found both in the West Indies and in Nubia. The vegetable phenomenon has a peculiarly shaped leaf, and pods with a split has a peculiarly shaped leaf, and pods with a split or open edge. As the wind blows through these it gives out the sound which gives the tree its peculiar rame. In Barbadoes there is a valley filled with these trees, and when the wind blows across the island a constant mosning, deep-toned whistle is heard, which, in the still hours of the night, has a weird and mournful effect.

A species of scacis which grows very abundantly in Nubia and the Soudan is also called "whistling tree" by the natives. Its shorts are frequently, by the agency of the larvae of insects, distorted in shape and swollen into a globular bladder from one to two inches in dismeter. After the insect has emerged from a circular hole in the side of this swelling, the opening, played upon by the wind, becomes a musical instrument, nearly equal in sound to a sweet-toned flue.—N. Y.
